

MENDI CHAIR

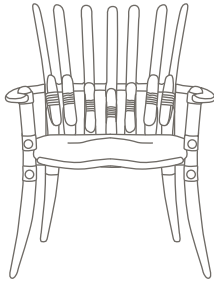

The striking Mendi has been referred to as the Chief's Chair. The wooden ribbed back and leather lashings are inspired by the structure of water urns used in Southern Africa. The armrest and leg are joined using traditional tying methods for binding stones onto wooden axe handles.

The ergonomic seat is molded latex and upholstered in A-grade leather and the throw is New Zealand sheepskin with a latex padded underlay. A unique artwork with a distinct heritage for your home.

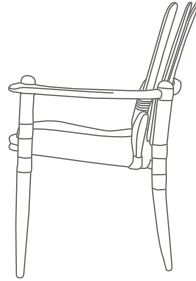

Shown in HQ Royal Black leather and tuape sheepskin.
